BRILLIANT WEDDING AT THE WHITE HOUSE

President' Daughter Becomes the Bride of Representative Longworth.

Washington, D. C. Special.—In the beautiful white and gold East Room of the White House, a few minutes after noon Saturday, the venerable Right Rev. Henry C. Satterlee, Bishop of Washington, of the Protestant Episcopal Church, pronounced the words which united in marriage Alice Lee Roosevelt, eldest daughter of Theodore Roosevelt, President of the United States, and Nicholas Longworth, of the Representatives in Congress from the First district of Ohio.

The ceremony—the simple beautiful and impressive ritual of the Protestant Episcopal Church—was attended with all the splendor and pomp befitting the nuptials of the daughter of the chief executive of a mighty nation. It was witnessed by one of the most distinguished and brilliant assemblages ever gathered in the White House. In the throng which thronged the executive mansion were almost the entire diplomatic corps, the members of the cabinet, the justices of the supreme court, the United States senators and representatives in congress, the governors of the states and territories, and many others high in official life, as well as a host of personal friends of the bride and bridegroom.

Marine Band Played.

Two great archimenes between the entrance doors and the corridor were planted with palms, ferns and potted plants, while the mantels were of purple and pink, and beautiful bouquets of roses, carnations and lilies of the valley graced every corner. The marine band, which was stationed in the vestibule the Marine Band Orchestra, under the personal leadership of Liezt, let out the personal leadership of Liezt, let out the personal leadership of Liezt, let out
